At 2 p. m. the addresses will be by members of the alumni or by former students, while words of greeting from representatives of other schools or members of families of the Founders.

Principal N. W. Thornton will speak on the plans of the college board for a greater G. C. I.

TURN HAIR DARK

WITH SAGE TEA

Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens so Naturally No body Can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grand-mother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft texture and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

ILLINOIS THEATRE.

"Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," which comes to the Illinois Saturday, matinee and night, is neither melodrama nor musical comedy. It is simply George Cohan's idea of an entertainment which taken as a criterion is a pretty good idea, when one takes into consideration that this young actor-author-playwright has in ten years written ten successes, his latest being "Seven Keys to Baldpate."

Dissect "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway" and it proves to have the elements of a thrilling piece of melodrama literature combined with those of farce and musical comedy. It is best liked for such musical numbers as "So Long, Mary," "Mary is a Grand Old Name," and the song that takes its name from the title of the piece itself. These are all popular after the manner of Cohan music, and they are important factors in making audiences want to see the play time and again. "Corinne" gives a new musical value to the role of Mary Jane Jenkins. She sings the part with much charm and gets everything possible out of the acting end of the character. Bernard Riggs has studied Kid Burns, the role opposite Mary, very closely and the slang and camp phrases roll trippingly from his tongue.

The big song hits in "The Beauty Shop" include: "In a Beauty Shop," "I Want to Look Like Lillian Russell," "Come Along Little Girl, Come Along," "Saturday Afternoon on Broadway," "Love's Hesitation," "When the Credit Comes to Call," "All Dressed Up and No Place to Go," "Poor Uncle Gaspar," "In Corsica," "I Love All the Boys in the World," "The Sunshine Maxixe," "Twins in September," "I Love You Just the Same," "Ring Out Glad Bells," "The Tale of a Mermaid," "The Fishing Fleet is Homeward Bound," "My Tango Queen," and "We Will Sail Back Home." "The Beauty Shop," which comes to the Illinois next Sunday tells a story that is replete with dramatic action and surprising continuity for a musical play. It sparkles with clean, wholesome wit. There are several climaxes that are almost melodramatic in action—yet excruciatingly funny withal. The scores appeal by reason of the many whistleable melodies and haunting harmonies upon which it has been mounted. A distinguished critic has referred to "The Beauty Shop" as being "a musical play with a punch in every act." It tells a coherent and interesting story that is developed in a sane and perfectly legitimate manner, proving that musical comedy is not necessarily a mere hodge-podge of inanities of banal appeal. Doctor Arbustius Bud, portrayed by Mr. Hitchcock, is a unique type of the up-to-date beauty specialist, whose sympathetic susceptibilities are played upon by the fascinating social set of ultra New York swindlers until he finds himself woefully depleted as to finances, and is finally forced to conduct his business for the benefit of his story-hearted creditors. Subsequently he seeks relief by a journey to Corsica in search of a mythical inheritance that proves to be a delusion and a snare. The new play affords great opportunity for Mr. Hitchcock's droll artistry, and the rendition of numerous songs in his own peculiarly effective manner.

AT THE EMPIRE.

To mark the beginning of Orpheum bills at his theatre, Manager Dolly has engaged Bleuer's band to give a concert program in front of the Empire this evening from 7 to 8:15.

FIND NEGRO IS GUILTY ASSAULT

Jury in Circuit Court Modifies Charge and Returns Verdict of Conviction.

Bell Newsome, the Moline colored man, was found guilty of assault with a deadly weapon by a jury in the circuit court yesterday afternoon. He had been charged with assault with intent to commit murder, but the charge was modified by the jury, lessening the degree of the sentence.

Newsome was charged with having "shot up" the pool room designated as the "Little Jennie" in Moline on Aug. 22. Clifford Hardin was wounded by a bullet and it is charged that Newsome also shot at Sidney and Andrew Long. C. S. Roberts represented him and State's Attorney Floyd Thompson prosecuted the case.

The jury's verdict follows: "We, the jury, find the defendant guilty of assault with a deadly weapon, with intent to inflict bodily injuries on certain persons without considerable provocation for such assault then and there appearing."

Professor A. F. Kelter of Davenport has been engaged to arrange for the tryouts and to select the teams. Four will be required, since Augustana now has four debates scheduled, including the triangular debate with Illinois and Monmouth.

History of Towns
in the War Zone

The National Geographic society has prepared the following facts concerning places that are figuring prominently in the news of the military operations in the European war:

FRESNOS—A small town in the northern part of France, five miles north of Valenciennes and four miles from the Belgian border, with a population of about 6,000. The first vein of coal in that part of France was discovered in Fresno, and coal-mining has ever since been the principal industry. Glass works and beet sugar factories also contribute their share to the activities of the place.

PAGNY—The little town on the railroad between Pont a Mousson and Metz, where before the present war the customs line into France was passed by passengers going from Metz and other German points. The hills to the left of the Moselle are noted for the fine quality of the wine produced there. The extensive ruins of the feudal fortress, the Chateau de Preny, the finest in all Lorraine, are located to the southwest of the town. The chateau was built by the dukes of Lorraine and was dismantled in the 17th century. Roman antiquities may be found in abundance throughout this region.

FRELINGHIEN—One of the northernmost towns of France, in the department of Nord, two miles north of Valenciennes and seven miles northwest of Lille, on the Lys river, which separates it from Belgium. The town has a population of about 1,200, and its inhabitants are employed in distilleries and oil works.

VERMEULES—A village of northern France, five miles southwest of Bethune and 13 miles north of Arras, on a small hill overlooking a branch of the canal running from La Bassée to Aire. The town's entire activities are centered in oil works. Its population is about 1,600.

Cambrin—This hamlet of northern France is located in the center of a large grassy plain, 17 miles southwest of Lille and five miles east of Bethune, on a small affluent of the Lys. The raising of cattle and the sale of the agricultural products of the neighboring country are the principal activities. The population is about 500.

CERNAY—A busy industrial town, a sort of miniature Pittsburgh, in Southern Alsace, located on the left bank of the Thur, nine miles northwest of Mulhausen and 18 miles north of Belfort. Besides being in a coal and iron mining region, Cernay has an important textile industry and numerous machine shops. The population approximates 6,000.

SAALES—An Alsatian town, just across the French border, eight miles north of east of St. Die and 33 miles southwest of Strassburg, near the source of the Bruche. Since 1870 there has been considerable emigration to France. The present population is about 10,000. Lace, hosiery and cotton and woolen goods are manufactured, and various kinds of stone are quarried nearby. Several abandoned iron mines are in the neighborhood. The region around Saaes is noted for its beautiful and diversified scenery.

ARNHEM—This town, on the Old Rhine, has been described as "the gateway in the Netherlands." It is bounded by hills, and is situated 34 miles east of Utrecht and 12 miles from the German border. It was originally a residence of the dukes of Gueldreland, and was once extensively fortified. Its ramparts, however, have been converted into charming public promenades. Cabinet ware, mirrors, carriages, mathematical instruments, cottons, potteries, soap and oil are among its products. Paper mills are located in the vicinity, and the town is a market for corn, cattle and fish. Arnhem has a population of about 65,000.

Minsk—One of the most ancient towns of Russia and the capital of the government of the same name, on the Svisloch, 150 miles east of Grodno, it belonged to the Krivitches, an early Slavonic tribe, and was captured by Rurik, prince of Lithuania, in 1236. Russia annexed it in 1555, and it was occupied by French troops in 1812. It has been part of the czar's realm uninterruptedly since November of that year. Its streets are narrow and irregular, and until recent years its houses were built mostly of wood. The

ONE INJURED IN LONG FALL DEAD

Probable That Second Victim of Davenport Accident Will Not Survive Day.

Pucci Raffaele, 28 years old, who was injured yesterday morning when he fell a distance of 70 feet through the elevator shaft of the new Ewert & Richter building in Davenport, died at 4:10 yesterday afternoon at St. Luke's hospital, where he was taken after the accident.

Nels Parsons, 24 years old, son of a wealthy contractor of Omaha, Neb., who fell with Raffaele, is reported to be in a very grave condition and is not expected to live through the day. His father, Grant Parsons, arrived from Omaha last night and is at his son's bedside.

Parsons, who was employed as labor foreman on the building, was working with Raffaele on the scaffold, when without warning a beam which was supporting it gave way. The men did not fall the entire distance without a stop, but crashed against projecting boards and beams in the descent. Both men were literally crushed to a pulp, sustaining fractured skulls and many broken bones and deep wounds.

Raffaele lived at 913 West Fourth street. He was unmarried. Parsons' father is president of the Parsons Construction company of Omaha.

manufacture of soap, wax, tobacco, pottery, matches, leather, lumber, tile, linen and woolen goods, spirits and beer, and iron-founding and iron mining are its chief industries. Its population in 1910 was 98,000, about half of whom are Jews.

SNLATYN—A town in extreme eastern Galicia, 22 miles east of Kolomea and 21 miles north of west of Czernowitz, on the left bank of the Pruth. "Coming from the south, Slatyn is the first town which, from the houses and steeples down to the dogs and cats, is the property of one nobleman," wrote a historian in the early part of the last century. The place has a fine castle, a college and excellent schools. Several tanneries and beet root manufacturing are located there, and its agricultural fairs are well attended. The population is approximately 13,000.

POLICZA—A Bohemian town, 30 miles southeast of Chrudin, and an equal distance from the German border. The town is enclosed by the Cracow and is on an affluent of the Cracow. The place is about 120 miles west of education of the children of Bohemian soldiers is located there. The inhabitants manufacture linen and woolen fabrics, and operate spinning mills and bleacheries. There is an active trade in linen and flax.

RUSTENBURG—A town in the Transvaal, South Africa, 60 miles west of Pretoria and 110 miles east of Mafeking, near the source of the Hex river. The town, situated at an altitude of 3,700 feet, is regularly built and makes a pleasing appearance. It is near the foot of the Magaliesberg. Bananas, figs, oranges, citron and apricots are grown in great profusion in the town and its environs, and form the greater part of its commerce. It has a population of about 1,600.

HEILBRON—A town in the northern part of Orange Free State, a British possession in South Africa. The place is the capital of a district of the same name, and is 180 miles northeast of Bloemfontein and 100 miles south of Pretoria. It is in the central part of the mining district of the Orange river colony, and owes its prosperity to the coal and iron ore taken from the surrounding hilly country. Heilbron has a population of about 1,000.
